

How to Register a Company in India?

Registering a company in India is now a simple 4-step process.

Here is what you'll need to acquire:

1. A Digital Signature Certificate(DSC)
2. A Director Identification Number (DIN)
3. Registration on the MCA Portal or New user registration
4. Certificate of Incorporation

With this, we have covered the basics of how to register a company. If you still need help registering your company, don't stress over it, and let our team of experts guide you.

Documents required for Company Registration

In India, registration of private limited company cannot be done without proper proof of identity and proof of address. Proof of identification and address would be required for the incorporation of all the company's directors and shareholders.

The organization must have a registered office in India for online business registration in India. A recent copy of an energy bill or the property tax receipt or water bill must be sent to confirm admission to the registered office. In addition to the tenancy agreement, the maintenance bill or the sale deed or a letter from the landlord with his/her permission to use the office as the company's registered office is accepted.

An identity and address proof of all the directors and the subscribers to the share capital must be submitted.